Told That There Was No Cure for Him.

"After suffering for over twenty years with indigestion and having some of the best doctors here tell me there was no cure for me, I think it only right to tell you for the sake of other sufferers as well as your own satisfaction that a 25 cent bottle of Chamberlain's Tablets not only relieved me but cured me within two months although I am a man of 65 years," writes Jul. Grobelen, Houston, Texas. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

WORTH KEEPING IN MIND

Some "Don'ts" for the Consideration of Those Who Are Planning Building of House.

If you are planning to build a house, whether it be for your own occupancy or for rental or sale, remember there are many things which should be omitted in the planning. Some of these are enumerated in the following "don'ts":

Don't, in the plumbing of the bathroom closet, permit the use of other than a gas-proof metal to metal connections with the soil pipe.

Don't, in planning your home grounds, forget that there is one form only of imitation that is safe—the imitation of nature.

Don't, if you are building in the country, think that you cannot have an electric equipment. Private electric light and power plants are quite within reach of even the moderate-sized purse, and furnish abundant light and current for the modern household appliances.

Don't forget that wall board is a very good substitute for lath and plaster, and that fractures which often occur in walls of plaster are not possible where this material is used.

Don't forget that you can make the back entrance to the new house quite as attractive as the front entrance.

Don't, when planning the fireplace fail to remember that good taste is expressed in a simple mantel designed according to the architecture of the house.

Don't forget that mirrors, in addition to fulfilling their utilitarian purposes of reflecting objects, help architecture.

Don't fail to allow for plenty of windows in the kitchen. This makes for cheer as well as for ventilation.

Don't waste space inside the wardrobe closets; utilize every inch. Poles for hangers may be placed very high for one-piece frocks, lower ones for coats and skirts, and underneath these drawers or shelves to take care of the boots, slippers and hats.

Don't, in planning for the windows in the sleeping room, ignore the possibilities of a casement window placed very high above the head of the bed.

This solves quite satisfactorily the problem of an additional window, and in appearance is most pleasing.

Don't plan for single doors between the living rooms and the hall. Wide openings give an air of spaciousness and a hospitable effect not possible to obtain with a single door.

Don't forget that a beamed ceiling not only looks more durable than a ceiling of plaster, but that it is so. The more exposed timbers there are in the interior the longer will be the life of the house. Plaster retards the action of the air upon wood, and this causes decay.

MAKING THE CHILDREN HELP

Small Citizens Being Interested in Developing and Beautifying City in Which They Live.

Among the many cities that are taking thought for the future in their planning, one seems more forward looking than the rest. That city is Newark, N. J. Not only are plans being drawn for the development of the city, but school children are being taught about the plans, are being acquainted with the general trend of thought in city planning, and are being shown pictures of the objects of beauty, bridges, monuments, arches, water fronts, and boulevards, of the notable cities of the world.

Such has been the success of the work in Newark, judging by the interest aroused among the school children, that the committee on public information of the American Institute of Architects has decided to try to make cities all over the country take up a movement to appeal to children in schools.

No city plan is safe from being neglected and forgotten if the coming generation is not trained in a sense of beauty and fitness that will recognize the needfulness of proper development. One of the causes of the neglect of cities at this time and of the ugly and hideous things that have been permitted to be built in them is the lack of early education in a sense of the beautiful.

There is a direct economic benefit to be derived from making a city beautiful. Any city that has developed along the right lines will exemplify this statement. Generally the physical appearance of a city is a sure index to the character and ideals of its citizens. The whole city planning movement speaks well for a spread in common sense, in the ability to think, and in a sense of enduring values, among the citizens of American cities.

Washington has as much need to teach its school children the essential things about a "city beautiful" as any other city has. Time and time again the city planning of Washington has been threatened with being warped and violated by persons who decline to look into the future.
